

42% of nurses' gloves are contaminated with MDROs after touching surfaces in a patient's room without ever touching the patient.*

Strict glove use reduces the transmission of many healthcare associated infections including Clostridium Difficile which can only be transmitted via the fecal-oral route.

IMPROVING QUALITY
REDUCING INFECTION

Oklahoma Foundation for Medical Quality
IMPROVING HEALTH CARE Improving Lives

*Boyce J Environmental contamination makes an important contribution to hospital infection J Hosp Infect 2007;65:50-54  CDC HICPAC 2007
This material was prepared by Oklahoma Foundation for Medical Quality, the Medicare Quality Improvement Organization for Oklahoma, under contract with the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. The contents presented do not necessarily reflect CMS policy. HAI-1127-OK-1010